

Recognised as “your local BP people” in regions where it operates, Reliance Petroleum will supply a total of 20 Slip-On pumping units to Rural Fire Brigades in Queensland. Slip-On units are lightweight, transportable fire fighting units. Ideally suited for fighting small fires, they hold up to 500 litres of water and are designed to mount onto utilities or trucks.

To be considered for selection, brigades across Queensland were asked to fill in a nomination form. These nomination forms were then evaluated by the Rural Fire Service, and selected recipients have been advised of their success.

Over the next 12 months, units will be delivered to the following Rural Fire Brigades:

- Mitchell Palmer
- Isabella
- Barratts Lagoon
- Alice Palmer
- Toobanna
- Nottingham
- Charters Towers
- Home Creek
- Ibis
- Grant
- Lowestoff
- Edie
- Canoona
- Munburra
- Durong
- Mount Urah
- Hurdle Gully
- Upper Pilton
- Tingarra
- Strathmore

The Rural Fire Service is made up of more than 1500 Rural Fire Brigades, and has over 35,000 volunteers throughout Queensland. Rural Fire Brigades operate in areas not covered by Queensland Fire and Rescue Service’s urban service. Reliance Petroleum is proud to be in a position to assist such a valuable community organisation in its vital work.
